

Courting ART

Woodstock landmark marks 25 years

Photos by MATTHEW APGAR • mapgar@shawmedia.com

The Old Courthouse Arts Center on the Woodstock Square celebrated its 25th anniversary in December of 2015. A monthly rotation of art shows began in 1990 and continues today. We offer a look in pictures at the landmark. TOP LEFT: Carol Hamilton of Woodstock looks at pottery pieces by the Clayworkers Guild of Illinois on Jan. 9 inside a converted vault previously used to store documents at the Arts Center. TOP RIGHT: More pottery pieces are displayed in front of a chalkboard housing election results. LEFT: Diana and Blake Karlin of Woodstock look at the exhibit "the END is the beginning" by artist Bert Leveille. BOTTOM LEFT: Sherry Hauri of Gages Lake is reflected in a mirror as she looks at jewelry for sale at the Arts Center. BOTTOM RIGHT: Artist Bert Leveille talks with a friend during a closing reception for her "the END is the beginning" installation.

Looking back

For a retrospective on the Old Courthouse Arts Center, see page 8.

